Qué vas a aprender

- Say what you like and don't like with I like / I don't like
- Ask «Do you like...?» and answer «Yes, I do / No, I don't»
- Talk about food, colours and activities you love or hate
- Use he likes / she likes for other people

Para pensar

Te encanta la pizza y odias las espinacas. Tu amiga inglesa te pregunta «Do you like spinach?». ¿Qué contestas sin hacer caras raras?

Explicación

I like, I don't like

To say what we enjoy, we use `I like` + thing: «I like apples», «I like football», «I like blue». To say the opposite, use `I don't like`: «I don't like onions», «I don't like rain».

En castellano: en español decimos «me gusta el chocolate», pero en inglés la persona va delante y el verbo like en medio: «I like chocolate». No digas «me like» ni «to me like». Sin the: «I like dogs», no «I like the dogs».

Love and hate

To say it more strongly, use `love` (encantar) and `hate` (odiar). We can put all the verbs on a scale: I love ❤️❤️ → I like ❤️ → It's OK → I don't like × → I hate ××.

«I love ice cream! I like fish. I don't like carrots. I hate mushrooms!» Consejo: hate es una palabra muy fuerte; cuando hablas de comida en casa de alguien, es más educado decir «I don't like it very much».

Do you like...?

To ask someone, use Do you like...?: «Do you like cats?», «Do you like swimming?». The short answers are: Yes, I do. or No, I don't.

You can add more information: «Yes, I do. I love cats!» or «No, I don't. I prefer dogs.» Ojo: no se contesta «Yes, I like» a secas; la respuesta corta es con do: «Yes, I do».

Food I like

Food is a great topic for likes and dislikes. Fruit: apples, bananas, oranges, strawberries (fresas), grapes (uvas). Vegetables: carrots, tomatoes, peas (guisantes), broccoli. Other food: pizza, pasta, chicken (pollo), fish, eggs, cheese (queso), chips (patatas fritas) and ice cream.

With fruit and vegetables we use the plural: «I like strawberries», «I don't like carrots». But: «I like cheese», «I like fish» (sin -s).

Activities I like: like + -ing

We can like activities too. After like, love and hate, the verb takes -ing: «I like swimming», «I love dancing», «I don't like running», «I hate getting up early».

Spelling: most verbs just add -ing (play → playing, read → reading). If the verb ends in -e, the e goes away (dance → dancing, ride → riding). Short verbs like swim and run double the last letter: swimming, running.

verb	-ing
play	playing
dance	dancing
swim	swimming
run	running

My favourite...

The thing you like the most is your favourite: «My favourite colour is green», «My favourite food is pasta», «My favourite animal is the dolphin». To ask: «What's your favourite sport?» — «It's basketball!»

Ortografía: en inglés británico se escribe favourite y colour con u; en inglés americano, favorite y color. Las dos están bien, pero en el cole solemos usar la británica.

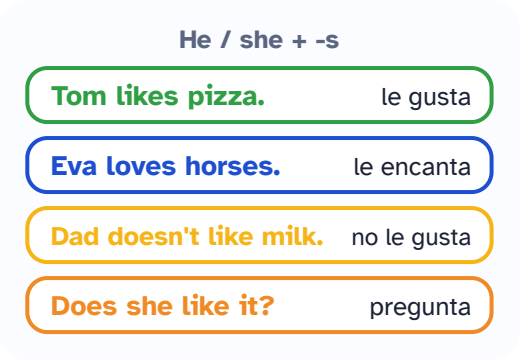

He likes, she likes

To talk about another person, we add -s to the verb: «My brother likes football», «She loves horses», «My dad hates spiders». In the negative we use doesn't like: «My sister doesn't like milk».

Questions: «Does your friend like music?» — «Yes, he does.» / «No, she doesn't.» Truco: con he y she, la -s va en el verbo o en el does, pero nunca en los dos: «she doesn't like», no «she doesn't likes».

Reading: a class survey

Class 3B did a survey (encuesta) about food. Read the results: «Fifteen children like pizza, but three children don't like it. Twelve children love ice cream. Only two children like broccoli! Most children hate onions. Our teacher, Miss Clark, loves fish and she doesn't like chips.»

Answer: How many children like broccoli? Does Miss Clark like chips? What's the favourite food of the class?

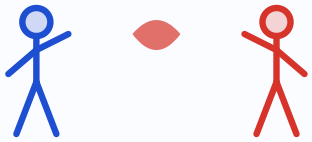

Let's practise: find your food twin

Make a card with five things: a food, an animal, a sport, a colour and a school subject. Walk around and ask: «Do you like pasta?», «Do you like maths?». Find someone who answers «Yes, I do» to all your questions: that's your food twin (tu gemelo de gustos)!

Then report to the class: «Marta likes pasta and cats. She doesn't like maths. Her favourite colour is purple.» ¿Has encontrado a alguien con los mismos gustos que tú?

Do you like pasta? — Yes, I do!
