Places in town: there is / there are

Nombre: _____ Fecha: _____

Qué vas a aprender

- Learn the names of places in a town
- Use there is with one thing and there are with more than one
- Make negatives and questions: there isn't, Is there...?
- Describe your town with prepositions of place

Para pensar

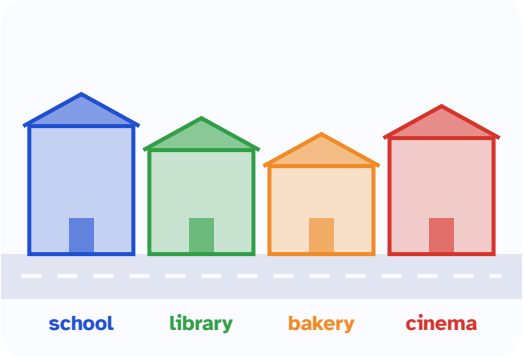

En español decimos «hay un parque» y «hay dos parques», con la misma palabra. ¿Pasa lo mismo en inglés?

Explicación

Places in town

Let's learn the places in a town: school, park, library (biblioteca), hospital, supermarket, bakery (panadería), post office (correos), police station (comisaría), train station (estación de tren), cinema, museum, swimming pool, restaurant, café and bank.

Ojo con los falsos amigos: library no es «librería», es biblioteca. Una librería es un bookshop. Y pharmacy o chemist's es la farmacia.

There is: one thing

We use there is (short form: there's) to say that one thing exists in a place: «There's a park near my house», «There is a big tree in the square», «There's an old castle in my town».

After there is we usually put a or an. We also use it with things we can't count: «There's some water in the bottle». En castellano: there is = «hay» cuando hablamos de una sola cosa.

There are: more than one

We use there are for two or more things: «There are three schools in my town», «There are some shops in my street», «There are lots of trees in the park».

The noun goes in plural: schools, shops, trees. The short form there're exists, but it's not common in writing. Truco: mira lo que viene después. ¿Es una cosa? → is. ¿Son varias? → are. «There is a cinema. There are two cinemas.»

Negatives: there isn't, there aren't

To say that something doesn't exist, add not: there isn't (there is not) and there aren't (there are not). «There isn't a zoo in my town», «There aren't any mountains near Valladolid».

With there aren't we usually use any: «There aren't any museums». En castellano: «no hay» se dice there isn't para una cosa y there aren't any para varias. Fíjate: en las afirmativas usamos some, y en las negativas, any.

Questions: Is there...? Are there...?

For questions, we change the order: Is there a bank near here? Are there any parks in your town? The short answers are: «Yes, there is. / No, there isn't.» and

«Yes, there are. / No, there aren't.»

To ask about numbers: «How many schools are there in your town?» – «There are two». En castellano: «¿Hay un banco cerca?» → «Is there a bank near here?». Es muy útil cuando estás de viaje y buscas algo.

Where is it? Prepositions of place

To say where places are, we use prepositions: next to (al lado de), opposite (enfrente de), between (entre), behind (detrás de), in front of (delante de), near (cerca de) and on the corner (en la esquina).

Examples: «The bakery is next to the bank», «The library is opposite the park», «The café is between the cinema and the school». Consejo: dibuja un mapa sencillo y practica con flechas; las preposiciones se aprenden mejor viéndolas.

Town or city?

A village (pueblo pequeño) is small: there are a few houses, a church and maybe a shop. A town is bigger: there are schools, shops, a market and a library. A city (ciudad) is very big: there are lots of buildings, an airport, big hospitals, museums and a lot of traffic.

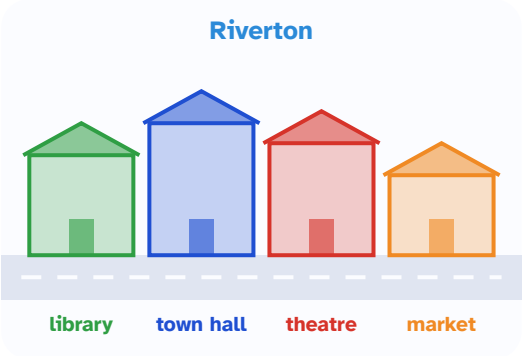

Describing where you live: «I live in a village near Teruel. There's a small square and there are two cafés. There isn't a cinema, but there's a swimming pool in summer». Pregunta: ¿tú vives en un village, en un town o en una city?

Reading: welcome to Riverton

Read Ella's text: «I live in Riverton, a small town near the sea. There's a beautiful beach and there are lots of fish restaurants. In the centre there's a square with a fountain. The library is opposite the town hall. There are two schools and a sports centre. There isn't a cinema, but there's a theatre next to the market. There aren't any tall buildings. I love my town!»

Answer: Is there a cinema in Riverton? Where is the library? How many schools are there?

Let's practise: design your dream town

Draw a map of your dream town (pueblo ideal). Add at least eight places: maybe a chocolate factory, a skate park or a giant library! Then write a description: «In my dream town there is a big water park. There are three ice cream shops. The zoo is next to the castle. There isn't any traffic: people go by bike».

Swap maps with a partner and ask questions: «Is there a football stadium?», «How many parks are there?». Consejo: comprueba que usas is con una cosa y are con varias.
