- Use the possessive 's: «Tom's sister»
- Read and draw a simple family tree

Para pensar

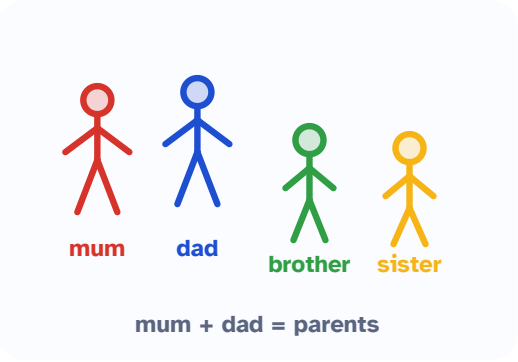

En español, el hermano de tu madre es tu «tío» y su hija es tu «prima». ¿Sabes cómo se dicen en inglés? ¿Y por qué «cousin» es especial?

Explicación

My family

A family is the group of people we live with and love. Families are different: big or small, with one or two parents, with grandparents at home, with stepbrothers or with pets. All families are special.

The first words are: mum (mamá), dad (papá), brother (hermano), sister (hermana) and baby (bebé). Mum and dad together are my parents. En castellano: «parents» no significa «parientes»: significa «padres» (madre y padre).

Grandparents

Our parents' parents are our grandparents. The mother of mum or dad is grandmother or grandma (abuela), and the father is grandfather or grandpa (abuelo). Many children also say granny and grandad.

We are their grandchildren: a boy is a grandson (nieto) and a girl is a granddaughter (nieta). Truco: la palabra grand (grande) delante de la familia indica una generación más: grand + mother = abuela.

Uncles, aunts and cousins

The brother of mum or dad is my uncle (tío) and the sister is my aunt (tía). Their children are my cousins (primos). Cousin is the same for boys and girls.

The son of my brother or sister is my nephew (sobrino) and the daughter is my niece (sobrina). Pronunciación: aunt se pronuncia «ant» en Inglaterra, como la hormiga (ant), y uncle suena «ánkel».

English	Español
uncle	tío
aunt	tía
cousin	primo / prima
nephew / niece	sobrino / sobrina

The family tree

A family tree is a drawing that shows the family in generations: grandparents at the top, parents and uncles in the middle, and children at the bottom. The lines show who is the child of whom.

Look at Emma's family tree. Her grandparents are Jack and Rose. Their children are Paul (Emma's dad) and Kate (Emma's aunt). Emma has got a brother, Leo, and a cousin, Sam. Can you find them?

This is my...

To present your family, use This is my... for one person and These are my... for two or more: «This is my mum. Her name's Laura.» «These are my

grandparents.»

Use his for a boy or man and her for a girl or woman: «This is my brother. His name's Hugo.» «This is my aunt. Her name's Pilar.» En castellano: en español decimos «su nombre» para los dos; en inglés hay que elegir his o her.

I've got... How many?

To say how many brothers, sisters or cousins you have, use I've got: «I've got one brother and two sisters.», «I've got five cousins.» If you have none: «I haven't got any sisters.»

Ask a friend: «Have you got any brothers or sisters?» — «Yes, I have. I've got a baby sister.» or «No, I haven't. I'm an only child» (hijo único). Remember the plural: one brother, two brothers.

Tom's sister: the possessive 's

To say that someone belongs to the family of another person, we add 's (apóstrofo + s) to the name: «Tom's sister» (la hermana de Tom), «Emma's grandpa» (el abuelo de Emma), «my mum's brother» (el hermano de mi madre = mi tío).

En castellano: el orden es al revés: en español decimos «la hermana de Tom», y en inglés, «Tom's sister». Primero el dueño con 's y después lo que es suyo. ¡No digas «the sister of Tom»!

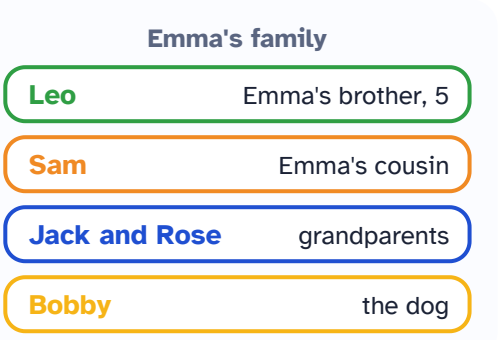

Orden contrario al español.

Reading: Emma's family

Read Emma's text: «Hi! I'm Emma and I'm eight. This is my family. My dad's name is Paul and my mum's name is Ann. I've got one brother, Leo. He's five. My grandparents are Jack and Rose. They live in a house by the sea. My aunt Kate has got a son, Sam. He's my cousin and my best friend! We've got a dog too. Its name is Bobby.»

Answer: How old is Leo? Who is Sam? Where do the grandparents live?

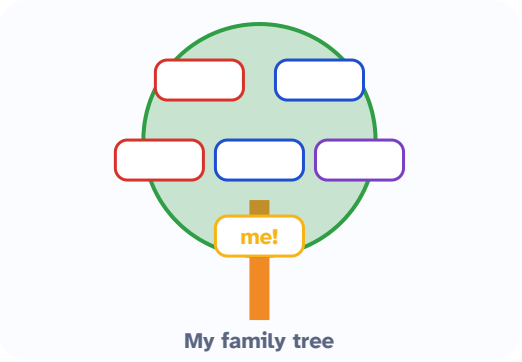

Let's practise: draw your family tree

Draw your family tree in your notebook. Put your grandparents at the top, then your parents, uncles and aunts, and you with your brothers, sisters and cousins at the bottom. Write their names in English style: «Grandma Carmen», «Uncle Toni».

Then present it to a partner: «This is my grandpa. His name's José. These are my cousins...». Your partner asks: «Who is Lola?» — «She's my mum's sister. She's my aunt.» Puedes añadir también a tu mascota: ¡es parte de la familia!
